SIoux CITY, Iowa, Aug. 25.—Angered farmers surrounding the Woodbury-co jail today muttering threats of wrecking the jail if Sheriff John A. Davenport did not release 14 picketers of the farm holiday movement.

The farmers had been jailed on charges of unlawful assembly.

The sheriff, declaring that it was imperative to keep the highways open and that there might be a recurrence of violence on the part of farmers, asserted he would have 200 of the pickets in jail by tonight.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Aug. 25.—The county courthouse here was an armed fortress today as the farmers' strike rose to a crescendo of bitterness, threatening bloody violence.

Hundreds of regular and special peace officers from five counties massed their forces for a swift assault on the heavily-manned agricultural picket line choking the six principal highways of this region.

MAY STORM JAIL

Six machine guns were mounted around the courthouse, ready to repulse a force of 1,000 militiamen who were reported on their way to storm the building and free 14 of their comrades held in the jail.

Acting on the tip that the farmers were preparing to rush the courthouse, Sheriff Percy Lainsou ordered the machine guns posted and equipped a body of special deputies with high-powered firearms. The guard of deputies was thrown around the courthouse, prepared to defend the building with bullets, if necessary.

Meantime, the sheriffs of four surrounding Iowa and Nebraska counties hurried to Council Bluffs, bringing with them their regular and specially-sworn deputies. These

Edward Ballard Refused To Show Securities, Ordered To Jail By Brown.

Edward S. Ballard, prominent Salt Creek township farmer, was being held in the county jail Thursday for contempt of court following his violation of an order imposed by Probate Judge E. A. Brown Wednesday afternoon.

Ballard is trustee of the estate of William H. Ballard for Mrs. Helen Irwin and children of near Tarrion. He filed his account of the estate but refused to exhibit securities, which include U. S. bonds, the court charged.

Judge Brown ordered him to bring the securities to probate court. He refused to comply with the order and was taken into custody by members of the sheriff's office Wednesday afternoon. In a hearing before Judge Brown he again refused and was ordered to jail and will remain there until he brings the bonds to probate court, the court told him.

160 Pickaway Teachers Assume Duties Sept. 5

List is Six Teachers Fewer Than Last Year; Few Changes Are Noted.

One hundred and sixty men and women have been hired as teachers for Pickaway-co's centralized schools, according to a list released Thursday by D. L. Buchanan, superintendent of county schools. This number represents a reduction of six instructors from last year's total of 166.

The county schools will convene Monday, September 5, and already plans have been completed for the opening.

MOVES OF ECONOMY
As moves of economy the boards of education in some townships reduced the list of teachers by consolidating several subjects, and in other institutions the junior high school organization decreased the number of teachers. In some schools, teachers were hired for part-time work.

Part-time instructors are listed as one-half. This explains the half numbers which are noted in the list of teachers.

One teacher each was cut from the list at Darby, Moore, Perry, Walnut and Scioto schools and one-half teachers were dismissed at Deercreek and Madison schools.

MEETINGS PLANNED
The first meeting of the Pickaway-co teachers' association will be held Saturday, Sept. 17, at Ashville high school, Supt. Buchanan announced. A meeting of school superintendents in the county will be held in Buchanan's office, Saturday, Sept. 10.

Hopeful of a complete school term of at least eight months for all of the county schools, Supt. Buchanan said it depends largely on the action of the state legislature in the case of the state aid school districts and upon several factors including the local tax collections in other districts of the county.

If the legislature makes the same appropriation for state aid districts, they will be assured of a complete term, Mrs. Buchanan declared and other districts of the county will be able to continue unless some unforeseen conditions arise.

The last of the teachers' examinations, by which applicants can qualify for positions in the county schools will be held Friday, Aug. 26. It will be conducted by the regular board of examiners, composed of W. M. Reid, R. H. Sponser and Supt. Buchanan, ex-officio member.

Are Topped.

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 25.—Thousands of inhabitants fled in terror today at San Fernando, capital of the La Union province, as the worst series of earthquakes since 1880 shook the city, according to reports received here.

Hundreds of homes were in ruins, while many churches and convents were destroyed.

Nineteen distinct shocks were recorded at Baguio, a summer resort and capital of a mountain province 200 miles north of Manila. Damage was heavy.

The shocks were so severe they put the seismograph here out of commission.

Manila experienced a 50-minute tremor but there was no damage.

Numerous quakes the last 24 hours have terrified residents of northern Luzon.

Earthquakes also were reported at Nueva Vizcaya, Cagayan and other provinces in northern Luzon. No loss of life was reported.

Mr. Newport, a farmer nearly his entire life, was struck by an automobile the day before last. Thanksgiving and complications resulting from his injuries proved fatal.

He was a native of this city being born April 9, 1853, the son of William and Anna Newport.

THIEVES ROB COOK'S STORE

Nearly $5 In Change Taken
With Other Goods; Screen
Torn Loose.

By tearing loose a screen and opening a side window, thieves gained entrance to the A. E. Cook Confectionery, 128 N. Court-st., Wednesday night and escaped with goods valued at $50.

The robbery was discovered by Kenneth Wilson, S. Pickaway-st., employe of the store, when he returned for work at 7 a. m. Thursday. He found the side window open and on investigation discovered various articles missing.

CHECK-UP MADE
According to Mr. Cook a check-up revealed the following articles missing: eight wrist watches, seven $1 pocket watches, one dozen 50-cent pencils, one Boy-Scout knife and a pocket-book. The culprits also took $4.90 in change from the cash-drawer.

They left 10 pennies in the drawer. Mr. Cook left the confectionery late Wednesday evening and left an electric light burning in the rear of the store. When Wilson reported for work this morning the light had been turned out.

LADDER USED
A small ladder was taken from the rear of the W. J. Weaver grocery and placed against the wall of the confectionery in order to take away the screen.

Officer William McCrady and Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell investigated the theft and obtained several finger prints. They are of the opinion that one man entered the store and handed the articles to another person on the outside. Officers are puzzled as to how the culprit left the store as there is but a small opening at the window.

FLEMING AWAITS RETURN OF JUDGE

HAMILTON, Aug. 25.—Grover Fleming, editor of an Ohio weekly newspaper, languished in jail here today because of failure to pay a $500 fine on criminal libel charges while his attorneys unsuccessfully fought for his freedom.

The newspaper publisher was sentenced to serve six months in jail but the jail term was suspended on condition that he paid his fine.

He was arrested in Springfield and brought here when he failed to pay the premium.

Judge D. Clinton Boyd, who sentenced Fleming, is at present vacationing in the west and county officials intimated that Fleming will have to stay in jail at least until the judge returns and hears the motion.

GOOD WEATHER FACES AIRMEN

"Green Mountain Boy"
Carries Enough Fuel for
37 Hours in Air

BOUND FOR NORWAY
Crowd Watches Plane
Gracefully Take Air

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Aug. 25.—Carrying enough fuel for 37 hours in the air, Clyde A. Lee, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and John Boshon, of Brooklyn took off from here at 7:36 a. m. local time today (5:06 a. m. E. S. T.) for Oslo, Norway.

Their bright red plane, "The Green Mountain Boy," in which they left Barre, Vermont Tuesday afternoon, took the air gracefully under its load of 450 gallons of gasoline.

It was a beautiful morning, with brilliant sunshine and a clear sky giving the flyers excellent visibility. The wind was from the west with a velocity of about 15 miles an hour.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

Reports of weather over the Atlantic were favorable, and the Americans expected to reach their goal in about 30 hours which would make them due in the Norwegian capital about 5:30 p. m. tomorrow night (11:30 p. m. E. S. T.) the weather was clear for about 600 miles out, and then they expected to run into light rain and light headwinds.

The flyers carried five gallons of fresh water, some sandwiches, and a few oranges. They were in excellent spirits as they left the airport, undaunted by their forced landing due to fog and rain at the end of the first leg of their journey.

They intended using the fuel in their large tail tanks first, and then the 400 gallons in five gallon tins. The purpose of this is to provide buoyancy in case they should be forced down on the ocean.

"The Green Mountain Boy" is a dual-control ship, and the flyers will take turns piloting it.

CROWD PRESENT

A large crowd of citizens cheered Lee and Boshon as they arrived at the airport, thoroughly rested after a long night's rest.

The Americans planned to follow the north-Atlantic shipping route across the ocean to Ireland, and then chart their course according to the weather. They may head for Oslo across Scotland and the North Sea, or may be forced to veer south to cut across southern England and turn back north over the continent.

Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen, of New York, who were eliminated from a projected race with Lee and Boshon to the Norwegian capital, when their plane was hopelessly wrecked at Placentia Bay, began salvaging what they could of their ship.

They planned to come here by steamer from the lonely spot where they were forced down, about 75 miles away. Neither was hurt in the crash, caused by the same storm and fog which forced down their Oslo-bound rivals.

PORT MENIER, Anticosti Island, Aug. 25.—"The Flying Family" of George Hutchinson, of Baltimore, prepared to take off today on the last land leg of their easy-stage flight to Europe.

GO 470 MILES

The giant Sikorsky, now a seaplane, with landing gear removed, the four Hutchinsons and their "guest" crew of four planned to hop to Hopetown, Labrador, 470 miles away, following the coastline all the way.

Then the next hop will take them out over the ocean to Gothaab, Greenland, 626 miles from the Labrador coast. From there they will fly to Iceland, the Faroe Islands, and Scotland, expecting to arrive in London on Saturday.

MARATHON TEST UNDERWAY IN RIVER

BEILAIRE, Aug. 25.—Bob Glasser, 20, today swam from a gruelling swim in which he swam the Ohio river 74 times while his friend, Angelo Beattie, went into home training preparatory to an attempt to smash the record.

Glasser and Beattie have been rivals for several years and Sunday made 70 trips in the water to Benwood, W. Va., and back. Glasser plunged in and surpassed the mark.

"Watch what I do Sunday," Beattie declared in announcing he would try to surpass Glasser's record.

less night and the daughter of John D. Rockefeller was again pushed to the brink of death.

It was the second relapse suffered by Mrs. McCormick in the past week, but her physicians abandoned hope that she would survive today's setback as she conquered the last sinking spell.

EARHART CROSSES COUNTRY LEE, BOSHON OVER OCEAN

GOOD WEATHER FACES AIRMEN

"Green Mountain Boy"
Carries Enough Fuel for
37 Hours in Air

BOUND FOR NORWAY
Crowd Watches Plane
Gracefully Take Air

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Aug. 25.—Carrying enough fuel for 37 hours in the air, Clyde A. Lee, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and John Boschon, of Brooklyn took off from here at 7:36 a. m. local time today
(5:06 a. m. E. S. T.) for Oslo, Norway.

Their bright red plane, "The Green Mountain Boy," in which they left Barre, Vermont Tuesday afternoon, took the air gracefully under its load of 450 gallons of gasoline.

It was a beautiful morning, with brilliant sunshine and a clear sky giving the flyers excellent visibility. The wind was from the west with a velocity of about 15 miles an hour.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

Reports of weather over the Atlantic were favorable, and the Americans expected to reach their goal in about 30 hours which would make them due in the Norwegian capital about 5:30 p. m.
tomorrow night (11:30 p. m. E. S.
T.) the weather was clear for about 600 miles out, and then they expected to run into light rain and light headwinds.

The flyers carried five gallons of fresh water, some sandwiches, and a few oranges. They were in excellent spirits as they left the airport, undaunted by their forced landing due to fog and rain at the end of the first leg of their journey.

They intended using the fuel in their large tail tanks first, and then the 300 gallons in five gallon tins. The purpose of this is to provide buoyancy in case they should be forced down on the ocean.

"The Green Mountain Boy" is a dual-control ship, and the flyers will take turns piloting it.

CROWD PRESENT

A large crowd of citizens cheered Lee and Boschon as they arrived at the airport, thoroughly rested after a long night's rest.

The Americans planned to follow the north-Atlantic shipping route across the ocean to Ireland, and then chart their course according to the weather. They may head for Oslo across Scotland and the North Sea, or may be forced to veer south to cut across southern England and turn back north over the continent.

Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen, of New York, who were eliminated from a projected race with Lee and Boschon to the Norwegian capital when their plane was hopelessly wrecked at Placentia Bay, began salvaging what they could of their ship.

They planned to come here by steamer from the lonely spot where they were forced down, about 75 miles away. Neither was hurt in the crash, caused by the same storm and fog which forced down their Oslo-bound rivals.

PORT MENIER, Anticosti Island,
Aug. 25.—The "Flying Family" of George Hutchinson, of Baltimore, prepared to take off today on the last land leg of their easy-stage flight to Europe.

GO 40 MILES

The giant Sikorsky, now a seaplane, with landing gear removed, the four Hutchinsons and their guest crew" of four planned to hop to Hopedale, Labrador, 470 miles away, following the coastline all the way.

Then the next hop will take them out over the ocean to Gothaab, Greenland, 626 miles from the Labrador coast. From there they will fly to Iceland, the Faroe Islands, and Scotland, expecting to arrive in London on Saturday.

MARATHON TEST UNDERWAY IN RIVER

BELLAIRE, Aug. 25.—Bob Glasser, 20, today rested from a gruelling swim in which he swam the Ohio river 74 times while his friend, Angelo Beattie, went into home training preparatory to an attempt to smash the record.

Glasser and Beattie have been rivals for several years and Sunday made 70 trips in the water to Benwood, W. Va., and back. Glasser plunged in and surpassed the mark.

"Watch what I do Sunday," Beattie declared in announcing he would try to surpass Glas-ser's record.

STRIKERS LEAVE

DUQUOIN, Ill., Aug. 25.—The striking miners from the north, whose invasion of southern Illinois coal fields was halted by gunfire of deputy sheriffs last night, are going back home.

Fifteen thousand miners, who retreated to Coulterville, 15 miles northwest of here last night, following the foray with Franklin-co law officers on the county line, voted today to return home and postpone their attempt to enter Franklin-co. Another 10,000 miners who invaded this section yesterday left for their homes immediately after the battle last night.

SEEK TO RELEASE

DRY LAW VIOLATORS

HELINGSFORS, Finland, Aug.
25.—A move to free 20,000 violators of Finland's new repealed prohibition law gained headway today.

Because of crowded prison conditions resulting from the arrest of nearly 30,000 annually for drunk-eness under the dry law, none of these 20,000 violators have served their terms.

The government is put to great expense to keep records of their whereabouts, and then finds trouble in placing them in prisons.

when the plane was almost over

The girl had been staying with friends in the capital.

blown up the entire bridge

WOMAN LANDS IN NEW JERSEY

Is First Aviatrix to Cross Nation Without Single Landing

NEAR HAWKS' MARK
Time Is Only Hour Slower
Than Record

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 25.—
Amelia Earhart Putman set the wheels of her trim red monoplane down on Newark airport at 11:30
a. m. today to become the first woman flyer to make a non-stop coast to coast flight.

She left Los Angeles at 3:26 yesterday afternoon (EST) and was sighted only twice on her long hop. She was reported at Anarillo, Texas, last night and early this morning her plane was sighted flying high over Wichita. But Columbus, and St. Louis observers who were looking for her plane reported her unsighted and as the time went on observers at Newark airport began to worry.

TAKES 19 HOURS

Her unofficial time for the flight was nineteen hours and four minutes.

Fears were dispelled however when her plane flashed out of the western skies to be set down in a perfect landing.

Her time from Los Angeles to Newark was just one hour and twenty minutes behind the record time of 17 hours and 39 minutes held by Frank Hawks.

NOT AFTER RECORD

However Miss Earhart did what she set out to do. Before she took off yesterday afternoon she said she was not intent on breaking the record but that she did want to show the world that a woman could duplicate any flying feat made by a mere man. This is the first time a woman has successfully negotiated the difficult and treacherous air expanses between Los Angeles and the eastern coast in one jump.

She said that she flew very high most of the time which accounts for the fact that she was only sighted twice during the 19 hours of her flight.

She encountered head winds during most of her flight she said which cut down her flying time considerably. However she aver-

BLAME HOOVER FOR STRIKE OF FARMERS

BY SMITH W. BROOKHART
U. S. Senator From Iowa.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of four articles by U. S. Senator Brookhart written exclusively for International News Service on the cause and cure of the farmer's strike in the west.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The farmers' strike in Iowa, which is now spreading to other states rapidly, may be laid directly at the door of Herbert Hoover.

The cause of the strike is the complete disregard by President Wilson's pledge that the $2.26 price of wheat would be held up after the end of the war, because the excess planting had been done on the plea of war need, were given as much power in that particular field as dictators. Complete disregard of his personal pledges in his acceptance speech four years ago.

FORGOT PLEDGE
The 1928 platform pledged "the creation of a federal farm board of representative farmers to be clothed with authority and resources with which not only to still further aid farmers' co-operatives and pools and to assist generally in solution of farm problems but especially to build up, with federal finance, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations which will protect the farmer from the depressions and demoralizations of seasonal glut and periodical surpluses."

This was not done. The board has never been properly financed. It should have had $1,500,000,000 with which to absorb crop surpluses and insure to the farmers a cost of production price. Hoover himself in his acceptance speech four years ago said he had no patience with the objections of opponents of the plan, who would refuse the use of the necessary capital to carry out the plan. He said at that time, "a nation which is spending $90,000,000,000 a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to one-third of its population their fair share of the nation's prosperity."

Had Hoover kept his word, there would be no necessity now for a farmers' strike. He is well aware of this from his own experience. Hoover and Julius Barnes, to carry out President Wilson's pledge that the $2.26 price of wheat would be held up after the end of the war, because the excess planting had been done on the plea of war need, were given as much power in that particular field as dictators. Complete disregard of his personal pledges in his acceptance speech four years ago.

BLAME HOOVER FOR STRIKE OF FARMERS

BY SMITH W. BROOKHART

U. S. Senator From Iowa.
(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of four articles by U. S. Senator Brookhart, written exclusively for International News Service on the cause and cure of the farmer's strike in the west.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The farmers' strike in Iowa, which is now spreading to other states rapidly, may be laid directly at the door of Herbert Hoover.

The cause of the strike is the complete disregard by President Hoover of the platform on which he was elected in 1928, and complete disregard of his personal pledges in his acceptance speech four years ago.

FORGOT PLEDGE
The 1928 platform pledged "the creation of a federal farm board of representative farmers to be clothed with authority and resources with which not only to still further aid farmers' co-operatives and pools and to assist generally in solution of farm problems but especially to build up, with federal finance, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations" which will protect the farmer from the depressions and demoralizations of seasonal glut and periodical shortages.

This was not done. The board has never been properly financed. It should have had $1,500,000,000 with which to absorb crop surpluses and insure to the farmers a cost of production price. Hoover himself in his acceptance speech four years ago said he had no patience with the objections of opponents of the plan, who would refuse the use of the necessary capital to carry out the plan. He said at that time, "a nation which is spending $90,000,000,000 a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to

Had Hoover kept this word, there would be no necessity now for a farmers' strike. He is well aware of this from his own experience. Hoover and Julius Barnes to carry out President Wilson's pledge that the $2.26 price of wheat would be held up after the end of the war, because the excess planting had been done on the plea of war need, were given as much power in that particular field as dictators. Congress, at their behest, gave them these broad powers.

1. $1,000,000,000 for operations in wheat alone.

2. Blanket authority to borrow any more that might be needed.

3. Authority to buy or sell for cash or credit.

4. Complete import and export embargo powers.

5. Authority to build necessary storage places, or to requisition such space and fix the price they would pay for it—right of eminent domain vested in these two men.

6. Authority to license dealers and elevators.

7. Authority to control exchange trading.

8. Authority to transport wheat anywhere, at home or abroad, and do business anywhere in the world.

This program was completely successful. The huge surplus of 1919 was kept off the market through the purchase by Hoover of 138,000,000 bushels, the price was kept at or above cost of production to the farmers, the surplus was ultimately disposed of, and the government made a profit of $59,000,000 on its transactions.

The All-Revealing Ad

A CENTURY from now a file of the advertising pages of the newspaper and magazine of today would provide a complete history of the customs and characteristics of the period. These advertisements record what the people are wearing, the problems of the day, current thought and the traits of the generation.

Pick up any issue of the family newspaper and there in word and picture is the story of the day. Preserve that issue and posterity a century from now can tell what the men and women of this generation were, what their mode of transportation was, how they were amused and entertained. The advertisements have made the past an open book.

Picture a man in the year 2032, chancing upon a file of this newspaper for the year 1932. Turning to the advertising pages he would see arrayed before his eyes the styles in wearing apparel for men, women and children of one hundred years ago. He would see the types of automobiles in use and from the number of automobile advertisements he would deduce that the automobile was in great favor and universal use. By the same reasoning he would learn that the radio was in great demand even exceeding in popularity the phonograph and player piano.

Training in the art of sleuthing would not be necessary for this reader of the advertisements of the past to inform himself, from the cancer-cure ads, that cancer was a menace to the generation and from other ads, that obesity and exceeding thinness concerned the public as greatly as the malignant cancer.

The advertisements are also a record of economic conditions, revealing market prices and estimating the supply and demand.

For the discerning contemporary reader the more interesting and valuable information than he can preserve for posterity.

The Season Wanes

THE shadows are lengthening, the evenings are cooler, the long, gourd-like squashes, marking the end of summer, are appearing in market. But it is the county fair that makes one certain of the waning of one season and the approach of another.

From now until frost, county fairs will be in full swing all over the state. They are part and parcel of rural and small town life, and the city resident is fond of them, too.

They come at a time when the crops are for the most part in. There is a little leisure between harvest-time and the activities of autumn. The farmer has money in his pocket. He feels he is entitled to a holiday. He likes to meet and talk things over with the folks of his county who he has not seen in months. He has in mind certain improvements on the farm. He desires to inspect farm apparatus and the like at his leisure. He takes pride in pitting his own choice products of home and farm against those of his neighbors.

He is not averse to taking a fling at the ponies or otherwise engaging in the gaming spirit upon which the state fairs, but which manages to find some form of outlet at most fairs worthy of the name.

So he goes to the fair, and he is the better for it, and so, too, is his farm.

Rising Tide

NOT everybody sees the current bull market as a bubble destined to a speedy bursting, least of all the stock broker. And if anybody is qualified to estimate the life of this market trend it is the man through whom shares are bought and sold.

The best proof that the brokers themselves are bullish is the prices they are paying for stock exchange seats. In a single day the price jumped from $30.00 to $120.00.

The upturn was not based alone on the rising number of shares changing hands. It reflects what those who follow the long-term movements of securities are thinking about the future. And they are thinking nice things about it.

Brokers can only guess but when they are willing to gamble $120,000 on their guess they are anything but pessimistic. Either they have inside information or are careful students of investor psychology. In any event they are most optimistic at this moment and that is a good sign.

Confidence is returning on a tidal wave. First commodity prices start jumping high hurdles. Then small investors by the thousands muster up enough courage to rush back into the securities market and clear up. And now the brokers, who will persist after the mar-

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

Copyright, 1931, by CONVIC-FRIEZE INC. Distributed by KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

At 11:30 on New Year's Eve, Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt arrives at the exclusive Mayfair Club in response to a mysterious summons from District Attorney Merle Dougherty. The latter informs Colt he believes he knows the "higher-up" responsible for the numerous jewel robberies perpetrated recently which baffle the police.

CHAPTER TWO

"CAN you disclose his name?" Dougherty lowered his voice to a husky whisper as he divulged:

"It's a she!"

"A woman!"

"And what a woman!" hymned the District Attorney, his glances rolling eloquently upward toward the glittering chandeliers.

Thatcher Colt's face lightened with a hunter's startled interest.

Had Dougherty really turned up something? The District Attorney now pointed discreetly with his thumb across the empty dance floor.

We saw a party of men and women clustered in front of the only vacant table visible in that part of the Crystal Room, barring the newcomers' way about a waiter, his hands star-fished in apology.

Through all the talk and laughter, one could hear this repeating, "I am very sorry, Senator, this table is positively reserved. You will have to sit further back!"

The District Attorney folded his hands over his vest buttons and chuckled.

"They'll take a back seat, all right!" he predicted. "They'll have to!"

Even as he spoke, the leader of the party surrendered with a shrug, and with a rueful smile led his guests to the rear.

"Nobody in New York can have that table tonight, except a very certain lady."

As he leaned toward Thatcher Colt, the District Attorney added impressively:

"That reservation is being held for the woman I'm telling you about. What's more, there are tables for her in half a dozen other night clubs as well. She parts for all those reservations. Whether she takes them or not, always sure of a ring-side seat, wherever her fancy takes her. Money seems to mean nothing to her. The 'Night Club Lady'—as she is called by the Broadway columnists—has been the subject of the 'Mystery of Mayfair'."

Colt's expression remained stolid.

"The 'Night Club Lady'?" he repeated. "Do you mean Lola Carewe?"

"So you knew of her too?"

"Who doesn't, Dougherty? The widow of Gaylord Gifford, the cotton millionaire."

"But nowadays she calls herself again by her maiden name, Lola Carewe. Mystery why she does that, too. In fact, my dear Thatcher, she is the most mysterious woman in New York today."

Colt seemed suddenly reminded of something.

"Old Gifford died a year after that sensational marriage, didn't he? And when his will was read, there was hardly enough money left to pay the undertaker. Did you want to talk with me about Lola Carewe?"

Dougherty turned his head on one side with a triumphant smile.

"Have you ever seen her?" he countered.

"I think not," replied Colt thoughtfully. "But in a general way I am familiar with her career. She was a cinema performer—was she not?"

"Ten years ago, she first made a hit in a French motion picture about Pompadour."

"And then went to Hollywood?"

"Where she was a success. The public idolized her. Along came old Gifford and married her. The story is that she is thinking of going back into pictures."

Here the District Attorney extended one red and hairy forefinger and tapped on the back of Thatcher Colt's hand, as he added in a low and accusing tone:

"Gifford died a pauper. Yet Lola Carewe continues to live in luxury. The manager told me she will be here any minute now. I just want you to take a good look at her. Then I'll tell you something."

At this moment, a group from a neighboring table descended on us in a gust of salutations. They were acquaintances of Dougherty who wanted to be presented to the Police Commissioner. Politely Colt surrendered to a barrage of questions.

Two slender fire-haired Hollywood sisters in blue gowns at once demanded to know the inside facts about the latest gang war. Colt had to assure them there was no honor among thieves; he was always being asked about that by the romantic girls. Next they wanted to know whether women were of any account as detectives. Presently Colt was cornered by a jeweled dowager, to whom he had to explain how finger-print identification differed from the Bertillon system. The dowager was supposed to be the mother of the two red-headed girls in blue, but she was merely an actress hired by the film company to play that part. She lived with the girls and attended them constantly, providing a dignified family background which greatly impressed the young stars' public.

No one noticed me, the fate of all secretaries of important men. I glanced around me curiously. At every table I recognized faces—the shoguns of Hollywood and Broadway. In this indiscriminate assembly, some were famous and others merely notorious, the good and the bad and the in-between of the land of make-believe.

With shrill partings our uninvited visitors hurried off, as the music resumed, and Colt, Dougherty and I faced each other again.

"And so," resumed my chief, as if there had been no interruption, "the mystery about the former Mrs. Gaylord Gifford is the source of her income. I seem to remember that Gifford left her about half a million in life insurance."

"But look what the creature spends!" cried Dougherty, his gaze almost apoplectic.

"Do you mean to say," demanded Colt in a low tone, "that you have a real reason to believe the widow of Gaylord Gifford is mixed up in a jewel ring?"

"I do!" avouched Dougherty with a positive shake of his head.

"The facts?"

"We have not investigated in vain," returned Dougherty ominously. "To establish a definite relation between such a woman and the underworld is not easy, and yet—"

"I think your mysterious night club lady is just arriving," interrupted Colt.

To the table that had been so valorously reserved, two prancing waiters now led the night club lady and an elderly escort. In my first glimpse of Lola Carewe, I thought she was the most dangerous beauty I had ever seen. I still think so. Perhaps I am an overly impressionable male; that is what my wife says whenever she hears me mention 'Lola Carewe's' 'dangerous beauty.' Once at a dinner in our apartment I dared refer to the smoke tangles of her hair, adding somewhat of a dramatic and dramatic shade. Betty soon again persuaded our guests and me—that my poetry was sheer nonsense.

Nevertheless, the dark Lola's appearance in Mayfair that stony New Year's Eve was startling and brilliant. She was wearing an ermine cloak—the four hundredth that night in Mayfair, where ermine is an evening uniform, but Lola's was an exceptionally hand some one—and under that a gown of white satin. Colt said she carried her head like a peacock.

Behind the night club lady, a little old man with dainty ears and a white goatee. He was Vincent Rowland, the sharp-eyed railroad attorney who loved to play Cressus to modern young painters. With a bland eloquence, famous alike in court-rooms and studios, the little old millionaire bowed suavely to several persons and soon was seated opposite Lola Carewe.

"Isn't she beautiful!" exclaimed Dougherty.

"She looks like a woman who has had bad news," murmured Thatcher Colt.

The waiters were serving us food. I found it hard to keep my eyes from Lola Carewe. What were the dark secrets in that queenly head?

"Her own collection of jewels is fabulous," Dougherty confided. "East Indian things—like the emeralds stolen from the eyes of idol in Lord Dunsany's plays."

I was listening with only one ear. My attention was drawn back resistibly to that other table. Now I surprised a curious little drama. I saw their waiter bow low and walk off with a supper order pressed against his shirt-front. At once Vincent Rowland and Lola Carewe began—or perhaps resumed—a spirited discussion. Their heads were close together, and both kept glancing in our direction. Suddenly Lola Carewe drew from her evening purse a golden pencil and wrote something on the back of a menu card. As she folded the paper, Vincent Rowland spoke to her earnestly, but she shook her head, her eyes summoned a waiter, and with a whispered direction, she gave him the note.

Colt, too, had observed what was passing. While Dougherty continued to orate on jewel thieves, the chief and I watched to see where the messenger carried that note.

He hurried directly to our table! In front of the Police Commissioner was laid a silver salver on which reposed the folded menu card.

"Pardon me," muttered Thatcher Colt, and picked up the note. Dougherty calmly attacked his soup. He did not realize from whom that billet came.

Colt's strong, tanned face was expressionless as he read the message through. But as he put the paper down, he momentarily closed his eloquent eyes, his only visible sign when deeply aroused.

Across the table he shoved the note.

"Will you read that and take charge of it, Tony?"

Hastily, I scanned the lines, scrawled in a large bold hand: "Dear Mr. Thatcher Colt:

"I must talk with you at once. You can save a human life. Will you do it? I am in my right senses; I never drink and am not neurotic. I want to talk with you on police business. Will you join Mr. Rowland and myself at our table? Or will you meet me outside if you prefer. Mr. Colt, please!"

"Lola Carewe."

Dougherty had finished his soup. "What's all that?" he queried, fumbling for a misplaced napkin.

Colt did not smile as he explained:

"Miss Lola Carewe is desperately anxious to give the police some information. Join us, Dougherty?"

For once, the District Attorney was jolted into utter silence. Blank-faced he followed through the throng. The dance floor was still a swaying mass of jewels, perfume and joy as we three made our way around the oval to the table of the night club lady.

Neglect of Measles a Too Common Fault, and Altogether Inexcusable

Many Parents, Despite Repeated Warnings, Still Regard This Disease as One That Children "Must Have," Although Precautions to Prevent It Are of Utmost Importance.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE are always more or less concerned about the diseases of childhood, but unfortunately there still exists a tendency to neglect many of these ailments.

Measles is such a disease, and too often it is accepted as one of the ailments that most children "must have."

This complacent attitude disappears when it is realized that measles is a serious disease. While it is seldom fatal to children over five years of age, it is one of the most dangerous ailments of infancy and early childhood. About two-thirds of all mortality from measles occurs in children under three years of age.

The early symptoms of measles closely resemble those of a simple cold. The eyes are red and extremely sensitive to light. Cough and fever are present, and since the characteristic rash does not appear for four or five days, the real condition may not be recognized immediately.

During this short period the disease is easily transmitted from one child to another, and where many children gather together, as in a school room, motion picture theater or Sunday School, small yet often severe epidemics may occur.

The rash first appears behind the ears and about the neck, then rapidly spreads over the face and body.

The afflicted child should be kept in bed until the rash and swelling of the skin have disappeared, and the eyes should be protected from bright lights and sunlight. It is best to keep the room shaded and dimmed so that only reflected light can reach the patient. The windows should be kept open, but the child should be well protected from wind and draughts.

The necessary medicine and directions as to diet and general hygiene for the patient should be given by your doctor. Every child should have a complete physical examination, with special attention to the lungs, eyes, ears and kidneys, six months after recovery from measles. Certain disabilities may occur after measles which, if immediately recognized, can be corrected, but if neglected they may seriously interfere with health in later years.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

An unusual motion picture of jungle savage beasts in action is due for its first showing in this city. It is "Bring 'Em Back Alive," visualizing the adventures of Frank Buck in fetching the largest and most ferocious wild beasts from the jungle to the zoos of the world.

The picture shows, among other events, a stalking, preying, frothing female tiger cut a tiny baby elephant off from its mother. The baby pachyderm is no higher from the ground than a medium sized police dog. Still whimpering for its mother's milk it senses danger. Its miniature trunk trumpets an SOS for mama. The tiger relentless, tireless, intent on the kill, lopes along. The wee elephant runs this way and that. It turns and scampers to the brush with terror while the tiger enemy trails it with drooling tongue and bared fangs.

But Frank Buck is there with a long barreled rifle. A careful, easy, well-timed shot brings the tiger down. And then a wild chase to capture the baby elephant with his bare hands.

It will be shown at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday.

AT THE GRAND

Warner Baxter is "the best damn caballero in all Hollywood." He won that title as "The Cisco Kid." Then, discarding his spurs and sombrero, for a frock coat and top hat, he played the title role in "Daddy Long Legs."

In his latest picture, "Amateur Daddy," opening at the Grand Theatre Thursday, his characterization is said to combine the romantic dash of "The Cisco Kid," with the human appeal of "Daddy Long Legs," and despite the fact that he wears neither spurs and sombrero, nor frock coat and high hat.

It was in Columbus, Ohio, that Baxter started his professional career. It was there that he met Dorothy Shoemaker while visiting the town in the hopes of selling some farm implements. Miss Shoemaker was looking for an actor to take the place of her partner, confined to his bed, ill, so Baxter learned two songs and the "business" on Sunday and opened Monday afternoon.

Miss Sylvia Six spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. David Six.

Mrs. Albert Johnson of Ashville, and Mrs. Robert Doherty of Omaha, Nebr., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson and family.

Mary Catherine Wolf of Circleville, is visiting with Jane Brown.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Porter Martin, a son, on Monday, Aug. 15.

KINGSTON

ORR REUNION

The 12th annual Orr reunion was held on Sunday, Aug. 21, in the grove adjoining the Concord church on the Londonderry-pk. At the noon hour a sumptuous dinner was served from one long table. During the afternoon a short business session was held, the president, James Orr, presiding. The secretary, Mrs. Dennis H. Dreisbach, called the roll with 55 members present. A letter was read from Charles T. Orr of Joplin, Mo. Those responding with short talks were, Messrs J. W. Rittenour, L. J. Hurst, W. K. Orr, Nelson Purdum, F. I. Rittenour and Miss Rebecca Orr and Mrs. Paul Johnson of Circleville. It was decided to have the history of the Orr family compiled and printed, copies to be ready for distribution at the next reunion to be held in August, 1933. Dodgers Facing Do Or Die Test

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Four and a half games out of first place as a result of their 7 to 4 defeat yesterday in the first game of their crucial series with Chicago, the Brooklyn Dodgers must beat games of the series today and tomorrow to stay in the National League pennant race.

The two contenders were about evenly matched on attack in the opener, Chicago getting 10 hits to Brooklyn's nine, but the Cubs won by bunting three doubles and two singles off young Van Mungo in the fourth inning when they scored four runs. Slade's double had driven in two runs for Brooklyn in the first inning.

HERMAN IS STAR

Both starting pitchers, Mungo and Charley Root, were unable to go the route. Bill Herman, Chicago's young second baseman, was the batting star with three hits for a perfect day at bat.

The third-place Pirates passed up an opportunity to gain ground, losing to the Phillies 9 to 6 for their twelfth setback by the Quakers in sixteen games this season.

Larry Benton's pitching gave Cincinnati a 3 to 1 win over the Braves in the first time of 1 hour and 20 minutes after Boston had taken the opener, 5 to 2.

Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, megaphone man of the St. Louis Cardinals, lived up to even his own press notices by beating the Giants 6 to 2. He pitched effectively and drove in four runs with a homer and a single.

LEVEY'S HIT WINS

The Browns conquered the Athletics, 5 to 3, in a battle of homers. After Jimmy Foxx had smacked his 45th homer, circuit clouts by McNair and Dykes led the score in the ninth. Levey's homer with one on base in the eleventh broke up the game.

Th Yanks increased their lead to 10 to 2 games, downing Cleveland 9 to 3 behind Charley Ruffing's steady pitching.

Professor Monte Weaver, of the Washington Senators, who has been in a slump, chalked up his 19th win of the season by gaining a 2 to 1 decision over Whitehall of Detroit. West's triple and Kerr's single won the game in the seventh.

GIANT HURLER AGAIN IN FORM

Bud Parmelee Wins Eleventh In Row Turning Back Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 25.—The Columbus Red Birds made it two out of three over the Minneapolis Millers today after taking a 5 to 1 victory over the Kels yesterday when the game was called at the end of the sixth inning because of darkness and rain.

The game actually was called off when the Millers were at bat in the seventh but the score reverted to the sixth inning.

PARMELEE AGAIN

Big Bud Parmelee, doing the pitching for the Red Birds, annexed his 11th straight win since he joined the Columbus outfit some six weeks ago.

Hauser, slugging first baseman of the Millers, started a one man rally in the fourth, knocked a home run and it was the Kels' sole score of the game.

Benton and Hill were called for mound service for the Millers and the Birds tagged them for 11 hits while Parmelee held the home-guard to three hits.

Columbus is only three and one half games behind the league leader Millers and were to meet the Kels in the fourth and final game of the series this afternoon.

Indicted Eagle

Conrad H. Mann, well-known Kansas City business man and a member of President Hoover's unemployment committee, who is one of the six prominent men indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at New York in connection with the operation of lotteries in his fraternal order, the Eagles, Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, was also indicted.

PREDICT RAIN TO FALL SOON

Next 24 Hours Expected To See Downfall Throughout Southern Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—Rain, forecast today for within the next 24 hours, is expected to bring relief to Ohio's parched farm crops and livestock herds.

Suffering from a prolonged drought in practically every section, Ohio will receive long-looked-for showers "within the next 36 hours," weather observers predicted. Heavy thundershowers are forecast over northern Ohio tonight or tomorrow morning and rains will probably follow in scattered sections of the southern area.

REPORTS HUGE LOSS

The promise of rain came on the heels of reports to M. R. Maney, head of the Ohio Farm Bureau grain department, estimating that the drought would destroy 40 per cent of the estimated corn crop.

Tobacco crops also were reported to be badly in need of moisture, Maney said.

The sub-normal precipitation has been practically statewide, although northwestern Ohio has been especially lacking in rainfall this summer. It was feared that the damage in that section would be great.

P. U. C. AGAIN IS ASSAILED

Attorney Charges Failure To Revoke License of Trucking Firm.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—A new broadside against alleged delay by the state utilities commission was unleashed here today when an Erie railroad attorney protested that the commission failed to revoke the certificates of the George Patton Trucking Co., of Akron although it has been found guilty of more than 230 violations.

Harrison Smith, attorney for the railroad, appeared before the commission to demand immediate revocation before a decision was handed down in the application of George B. Wells, trustee in bankruptcy, to transfer the certificates to a new company bearing Patton's name.

Chairman E. J. Hoppe, although promising that "An iron hand" will be used in the future if further violations are reported against the new company, rejected the appeal. Smith declared the action will be taken to the state supreme court.

STOCKS GO UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—With stocks and cotton setting the pace, security and commodity markets today gave a demonstration of strength on a broad front.

Bonds alone were an exception, continuing to meet heavy profit-taking as a result of their spectacular gains in the last six weeks.

Stocks rose from $1 to $5 a share. Specialties like Case Threshing and Eastman Kodak were big gainers. The rest of the market was strong, too. U. S. Steel common went to a new high for the move while the preferred was up sharply. American Telephone was lagging but General Electric was strong and the rail list as a whole forged ahead to new heights for the recovery.

SPECIAL CONGRESS?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Definite reports of an extra session of Congress during September were current today. It was said the session would be called to deal with the increasingly threatening farm strike in the west.

Asked about the report Vice President Curtis said: "I have heard of such a plan, you will have to ask the president about that."

HUNT RUSTLERS OF 1,000 POUND BULL

LOGAN, Aug. 25.—Cattle rustlers, who stole a 1,000-pound bull from the farm of Ernest Daubenmeier, near here, are being sought by authorities today. It was believed the rustlers used a truck to cart the animal away.

WILL TAKE STUMP

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and Former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, defeated candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, both will take the stump in the coming campaign for David S. Ingalls, the nominee, state Republican headquarters announced today.

FRENCHMEN GO ON DIET PARIS—Slimming is now being taken up by Frenchmen in increasing numbers. Those who once scarcely gave a thought to the measurement of their waists, are now discussing their diets as eagerly as their wives and sweethearts, and argue over the merits of various sports and exercises for reducing weight.

MOE ELIMINATED
ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 25.—Annual Western amateur golf tournament entered the quarter-final round today with last year's titleholder, Don Moe of Portland, Ore., on the sidelines.

Of the 31 aspirants to the Western golf throne who started in yesterday's match play, eight remained today to battle it out in the 36-hole quarter-final.

The first and second rounds produced some amazing reverses, beginning with the first round elimination of the defending champion by Charles "Chick" Evans, Chicago veteran, in a fierce struggle that was not determined until the rivals reached the 18th hole.

Dodgers Facing Do Or Die Test

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Four and a half games out of first place as a result of their 7 to 4 defeat yesterday in the first game of their "do or die" series with Chicago, the Brooklyn Dodgers must beat the Cubs today and tomorrow to stay in the National League pennant race.

The two contenders were about evenly matched on attack in the opener, Chicago getting 10 hits to Brooklyn's nine, but the Cubs won by bunting three doubles and two singles off young Van Mungo in the fourth inning when they scored four runs. Slade's double had driven in two runs for Brooklyn in the first inning.

HERMAN IS STAR

Both starting pitchers, Mungo and Charley Root, were unable to go the route. Bill Herman, Chicago's young second baseman, was the batting star with three hits for a perfect day at bat.

The third-place Pirates passed up an opportunity to gain ground, losing to the Phillies 9 to 6 for their twelfth setback by the Quakers in sixteen games this season.

Larry Benton's pitching gave Cincinnati a 3 to 1 win over the Braves in the last time of 1 hour and 20 minutes after Boston had taken the opener, 5 to 2.

Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, megaphone man of the St. Louis Cardinals, lived up to even his own press notices by beating the Giants 6 to 2. He pitched effectively and drove in four runs with a homer and a single.

LEVEY'S HIT WINS

The Browns conquered the Athletics, 5 to 3, in a battle of homers. After Jimmy Fox, had smacked his 45th homer, circuit clouts by McNair and Dykes tied the score in the ninth. Levey's homer with one on base in the eleventh broke up the game.

Th Yanks increased their lead to 10 1-2 games, downing Cleveland 9 to 3 behind Charley Ruffing's steady pitching.

Professor Monte Weaver, of the Washington Senators, who has been in a slump, chalked up his 19th win of the season by gaining a 2 to 1 decision over Whitehill of Detroit. West's triple and Kerr's single won the game in the seventh.

CAROTHERS CHAMP.

VANDALIA, Aug. 25.—Steve Carothers, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., today was crowned the champion of all champions as a result of his brilliant shooting in yesterday's annual Grand American trapshooting tournament when the title marksmen of the 48 states stepped to the firing line. He also was defending champion.

Carothers, many times Pennsylvania state champion, shattered 100 out of 200 of the clay targets to tie in first place with Charles Bogert, of Sandusky, O. In the shoot-off match, the Pennsylvania sportsman broke 50 straight birds while Bogert missed his forty-seventh shot. L. Waggoner, Neb., placed third with a 197 score and 16 state champions tied for fourth with 186.

GIANT HURLER AGAIN IN FORM

Bud Parmelee Wins Eleventh In Row, Turning Back Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 25.—The Columbus Red Birds made it two out of three over the Minneapolis Millers today after taking a 5 to 1 victory over the Kols yesterday when the game was called at the end of the sixth inning because of darkness and rain.

The game actually was called off when the Millers were at bat in the seventh, but the score reverted to the sixth inning.

Parmelee AGAIN Big Bud Parmelee, doing the pitching for the Red Birds, annexed his 11th straight win since he joined the Columbus outfit some six weeks ago.

Hauser, slugging first baseman of the Millers, started a one man rally in the fourth, knocked a home run and it was the Kels' sole score of the game.

Benton and Hill were called for mound service for the Millers and the Birds tagged them for 11 hits while Parmelee held the home-guard to three hits.

Columbus is only three and one half games behind the league leading Millers and were to meet the Kels in the fourth and final game of the series this afternoon.

Indicted Eagle

Conrad H. Mann, well-known Kansas City business man and a member of President Hoover's unemployment committee, who is one of the six prominent men indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at New York in connection with the operation of lotteries in his fraternal order, the Eagles. Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, was also indicted.

PREDICT RAIN TO FALL SOON

Next 24 Hours Expected To See Downfall Throughout Southern Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—Rain, forecast today for within the next 24 hours, is expected to bring relief to Ohio's parched farm crops and livestock herds.

Suffering from a prolonged drought in practically every section, Ohio will receive long-looked-for showers "within the next 36 hours," weather observers predicted. Heavy thundershowers are forecast over northern Ohio tonight or tomorrow morning and rains will probably follow in scattered sections of the southern area.

REPORTS HUGE LOSS The promise of rain came on the heels of reports that R. Maney, head of the Ohio Farm Bureau grain department, estimating that the drought would destroy 40 percent of the estimated corn crop.

Tobacco crops, also were reported to be badly in need of moisture, Maney said.

The sub-normal precipitation has been practically statewide, although northwestern Ohio has been especially lacking in rainfall this summer. It was feared that the damage in that section would be great.

FARM STRIKE

men reinforced the officers already here and today they were forming lines for an attack on the highway barricades of the farmers.

PICKETS DETERMINED Equally as determined as the forces of the law were the farm pickets, who reassembled on the roads after squads of deputies had made unsuccessful attempts to break the back of their strike.

First serious violence of the fast-spreading farm strike broke out on Highway 34 when five deputies were injured in an attempt to sever the picket lines. Driving up to the farmers' barricades, the officers began hurling tear gas bombs. Enraged, the striking farmers replied with sticks, stones, railway ties and other missiles.

In the face of this barrage of deputies retreated, all of them hurt in the scuffle and their automobiles damaged. Resentment of miners against the authorities mounted to fever heat when 15 of the fellows were arrested on Highway 34. They were brought into Council Bluffs where they underwent a summary trial on charges of obstructing traffic and unlawful assembly.

FOUND GUILTY Found guilty, they were fined $100 or given the alternative of imprisonment. Only one of the 15 farmers could produce the fine. The other 14 were incarcerated and it was their freedom which the thousand farmers were reported seeking in a rumored march on the courthouse.

Although all six highways in the vicinity were barricaded by the strikers who refuse to permit produce or livestock trucks to enter Council Bluffs or Omaha, Neb., highway number 34 appeared to be the center of strike activities. Fully 2,000 embattled farmers were said to be gathered on this road alone.

Highway 34, Sheriff Lainsan said, will be the first objective of his deputies in their attempt to end the blockade. A flying wedge of 100 armed deputies was ready to advance on this road.
